

50th Anniversary FMHS Lecture Series: 50 Years of Training the Health Workforce in Auckland

Thursday 19 April, 7-8.30pm
AMRF Lecture Theatre,
Grafton Campus, 85 Park Road
FREE

From small beginnings, we have transformed medical education and health care in New Zealand and beyond

In 1968 the University of Auckland's School of Medicine opened its doors to receive the first intake of 60 students.

Since then our institution has developed into the multidisciplinary Faculty of Medical and Health Sciences, with many thousands of students training in nursing, pharmacy, medical imaging, audiology, optometry, public health and medical science, with robust research profiles across all these areas.

In the first of our 50th Anniversary FMHS Lecture Series, proudly presented with our partner Auckland Medical Research Foundation (AMRF), our speakers will outline the historic milestones that contributed to the establishment of the Medical School and its evolution into the Faculty of Medical and Health Sciences, today regarded as one of the most prestigious academic groupings in the country.

Speakers:

'Early history of the faculty'
Professor Linda Bryder

'Establishment of the School of Nursing'
Associate Professor Judy Kilpatrick

'Establishment of the School of Pharmacy'
Professor John Shaw

'The Māori and Pacific Admissions Scheme'
Professor Papaarangi Reid

'The Auckland Medical Programme
- Current and Future'
Professor Warwick Bagg

For more information and to RSVP visit: www.fmhs.auckland.ac.nz/50-years-of-training

Presented with our partner:

Auckland Medical Research Foundation
est. 1955

MEDICAL AND HEALTH SCIENCES

